

LIVE BAIT STILL SNAGGING KEEPERS

Careful. You could get hooked. This alluring musical group has been catching their limit since the mid 80s with a large collection of old and new folk tunes, ballads, blues, pop, rock, swing, and original songs. They've been casting their spell over numerous festivals, concerts, coffeehouses, homes, restaurants, libraries, and backwater bars around southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois with an entertaining mix of humor and music.

Two guitars and an upright bass with some tight harmonies form the core of this group. Throw in a tackle box of harmonicas, percussion instruments, some extra guitars in different tunings, and you have the recipe for a variety of songs.

But don't take our word for it. Here's what others have said:

"Whether we're enjoying their humorous banter or their accomplished musicianship, Live Bait is always unpredictably entertaining. We know our audience will walk away with a smile whenever these men are in town."

— The Village Concert Series, Sandwich, Illinois

"You're about to be reeled in—hook, line, and sinker, by this lively acoustic group. The playlist is quite varied, from old standards like "Five Foot Two" and "Ain't Misbehavin'" to traditional Delta-style blues handled deftly on slide guitar by Pete Jonsson. Original tunes and revival tunes are as likely to be played as haunting old English ballads. Throw in a dash of humor just for good measure."

— Warrenville Folk Music Society

"The Live Bait Band is a high energy trio that performs flawlessly an extensive array of folk and sixties pop on guitar, bass, and harmonica. This group is always a big crowd pleaser."

— Break Even Productions, Rockford, Illinois
